

Independent Study in AQA A Level History

| | |
|--|--|
| After each lesson, in addition to completing any set work, a pro-active, independent learner will... | |
| Ensure that notes are completed and filed/stored suitably in a folder or book. Highlight key points. | |
| Consolidate your learning into your course booklet. | |
| Read your curriculum intent organizer or tick-list and RAG what you have learnt so far. | |
| Research and revise any amber or red sections of your CIO or tick-list. | |
| Read the relevant class notes and annotate with additional, relevant content; go back over difficult terminology; re-read the texts if required; and complete online revision to check understanding and knowledge. | |
| Make a list of things not fully understood to discuss with a peer or a teacher before the next lesson AND carry out the discussion (or pose the questions to your teacher via e-mail). | |
| Try to summarise the content of each lesson in note or diagrammatic format to diagnose what you have and haven't understood. | |
| Try to commit factual information (e.g. contextual factors) to memory immediately, rather than leaving it until revision – try flashcards, make a terminology poster, online quiz, test your friend, etc. | |
| Match the content of the specification (do you know what the AOs are?) against lesson notes/content to ensure that all points are covered. Do you know which AOs have the largest weighting? | |
| Maintain a list of learning points (www/ebi targets) from reviewed/marked work and regularly review this list. Make SMART targets to work on these. Have you made progress? | |
| Seek out additional sources of questions on areas of weakness where mistakes were made in classwork, homework or a test. For important pieces of work, diagnose mistakes as active mistakes, slip-ups and blackouts and act on them. | |

Create... A set of flash-cards, or a mind-map, using the questions on your tick-list or CIO. A debate for a 'how far do you agree' question. A linking diagram of factors/themes throughout the Tudor/American Dream era.
